

All our sugar...

...now French-produced !

Milk and sugar are two essential ingredients in the production of chocolate and praliné.

And we are delighted to announce that the Weiss chocolate factory now uses French sugar for its chocolate, praliné and confectionery production.

This follows on from our announcement 4 months ago that we now only use French milk in our products.

A locally-sourced product !

- France is the world's leading producer of beet sugar, which is transformed fewer than 30km away from the farm where the beets are grown.
 - There is no waste because the whole beets are transformed, and any residue composted.
 - Beet sugar is naturally white, so its production requires very little supplementary refining.

We have opted to work with high-quality French producers who respect the environment and are part of Weiss's local supply chain.
